CHICAGO—The Chicago Market: Living and Giving show has formed a partnership with Traditional Home magazine to designate one day, July 26, dedicated to design.

On that day, interior designers and high-end specialty retailers will be invited to shop the market's designer-friendly resources, with a special focus on the Temporary Suites HOME section and select showrooms. A lunch presentation titled "Traditional Now" will also be held, in which Krissa Rossbund, senior design and style editor of Traditional Home, and Frank Ponterio, interior designer of Frank Ponterio Design, will provide insights into what "traditional" means in 2010. The Temporary Suites HOME section will host a dessert and champagne reception following this presentation.

The Temporary Suites HOME area will also have a display highlighting products ranging from traditional to modern to trendy.
